At Schiller we believe students should have the opportunity to learn and experience different social, economic, technological, and sustainable aspects, integrating them into a solid way of thinking and acting in order to face global demands.

Traditionally, scoring has served as the most common way of evaluating talent: exam grades, rating scales, etc. However, at Schiller, we believe that behind numbers there are always people.

This is why we are extremely happy to introduce our Scholarship Plan: a complete and diverse portfolio of personal awards in which not only the “numbers” are valued but also the student’s potential talent to improve today’s society and people’s lives.

Life shouldn’t be based solely on scores and points... and at Schiller, we believe that your education shouldn’t be either.
